

DeRosa named acting principal

by Debbi Michals

Richard DeRosa, science director for Wilmington Public Schools, was named acting principal of Wilmington High School on August 10 after seven different ballots and a heated discussion. No time limit was set for the acting principalship, and the committee did not vote to repost the position, leaving the issue temporarily solved but at a standstill right now.

Committee Chairman Bob Peterson and members Linda McMenimen and John Brooks supported Sager's nomination of DeRosa, after motions for David Sweeney of Foxboro High School and Dr. Joseph Connelly of the North Intermediate School failed. Brooks, who cast the deciding vote in Connelly's nomination, said he could not vote for him because he did not want to create a vacancy at the North Intermediate by moving Connelly to the High School.

Prior to the DeRosa's election as acting principal, Dr. Sager cited three possible solutions to the deadlock that has existed for almost two months. Her suggestions included the appointment of a permanent principal, the selection of an acting principal and reposting the position, and a middle of the road proposal of trying somebody on an acting basis for one year with the understanding that although the position would still be reposted, the person may be considered for permanent appointment.

Not included in Sager's proposals, however, was committee member Anthony Accardi's highly controversial and possibly illegal motion to appoint Assistant Superintendent of Schools Robert Horan temporary principal. Accardi cited school committee policy, as well as the committee's contract with Horan as legitimate reasons for moving the assistant superintendent to the high school.

An obviously surprised Horan thanked Accardi for his confidence and kind statements about his qualifications, but said with the recent changes in the structure of the school department, he would not feel comfortable accepting this appointment. Directors and curriculum specialists who used to control the programs at the intermediate schools have been phased out, he added, and the responsibilities these people used to maintain have been designated to the assistant superintendent. "Without an assistant superintendent, these areas would suffer."

"I would request that before voting you meet with me and discuss this issue in terms of the contract," Horan told the board. "This is news to me." Appointing Horan temporary principal would be a demotion. Committee man Brooks questioned the legality of Accardi's motion and also said, "First we went through the process of eliminating all the content curriculum specialists, and now you're going to eliminate the one person who is going to carry the load. If you want to return the directors, I'd be more than happy to consider the proposal."

Linda McMenimen said she would consider appointing Horan to the job if Accardi would specify how long "temporary" would be. She said she felt 60 or 90 days would be sufficient, but she would not want to see him placed in the principalship for an unlimited time. In addition, she interjected, she did not feel that putting Horan in the job necessarily followed committee policy or contract guidelines since the principalship is not a sudden vacancy, but rather one they've known about for almost eight months.

McMenimen and Brooks were not the only ones to speak out. Former school board member Jim Demos had plenty to say about Accardi's proposal: "What I see happening here tonight is that you've become the superintendent of schools all of a sudden. So that means that anybody on the board can take over and make a decision for my kids, and I'd be quite worried about that. You are a policy maker, not a manager. You are breaking the law here."

Whether or not Accardi was breaking the law was definitely an issue because according to state laws governing school departments, the superintendent is the only one who can recommend that anyone be appointed to any school posts. The school committee is only allowed to vote on those recommendations, and not make any recommendations of its own.

The board refused to postpone the vote until speaking with Horan or until it was advised on the legality of Accardi's motion. Horan was also denied a right to speak to legal counsel because, as Chairman Peterson explained, under Roberts Rules of Order, once the question is moved, no one may speak. Brigit Zukas had previously moved the question.

The motion failed, however, three to two, with only Accardi and Zukas in favor of the idea. At that point, the board began to consider Sager's proposals. Brooks suggested that the superintendent name an acting principal from within and without the school system excluding those people who are at the center of the current controversy.

Committee woman Linda McMenimen responded to Brooks' proposal by stating publicly some well-kept committee secrets. "There are no winners and losers among the adults," she said, "only the children are the losers." The object, she went on, is always to get a principal for the children, and the only way to eventually end up with a permanent principal would be "to go on as if there are no candidates that appeal to the school committee." She suggested hiring an acting principal and reposting the position as the most viable solution at this time.

Brooks said the only purpose of reposting would be to eliminate some of the candidates, which he did not feel was necessary. McMenimen disagreed.

"One candidate who is a finalist was acting principal for the last four months," she explained. "In September we read a note of his intent to retire in June 1983, but he asked us to keep it quiet in the best interest of the school. When George Eisenberg resigned, we felt the best thing to do was put this person in (as acting principal) because he would be retiring in June. Since then, he's had second thoughts about retiring, and he applied for (the principalship)...I've heard one person (on the board) say he would support the superintendent's recommendation, maybe not on the first ballot...I've heard another board member say he (the superintendent's choice) would be an excellent candidate for any other school but Wilmington High School..."

McMenimen went on to say that board members could delay the whole process for two years until they could get a new superintendent, but, she added, "Are we going to jeopardize this school system for two years just so a favorite son can get the job?"

Committee woman Zukas "took exception" to the issue of a favorite son candidate and said, "I'm tired of hearing that someone who is well-liked can't be a good high school principal." She said she took a random survey of 100 Wilmington

Stewart named to new deputy post

A new position has been created in the Wilmington Fire Department, that of a second deputy chief. Daniel Stewart has been named to the position in an acting capacity.

Stewart, brother of Selectman Jim Stewart, had been serving as an acting lieutenant, until the return to work on Aug. 10 of Lt. Silverius Blonigen. On the day Lt. Blonigen returned from an extended sick leave, Town Manager Buzz Stapeczynski created the second deputy's post and named Stewart to fill it.

Stewart's status as an acting lieutenant became the subject of controversy in May when newly elected selectman Robert Doucette made a motion to appoint Stewart as a permanent lieutenant. The motion was withdrawn after it was explained that such an appointment was up to the town manager, not the selectmen, and furthermore, it would have to come under Civil Service laws.

The department has four lieutenants, who act as shift commanders. Two permanent lieutenants were named in March, at the same time that Dan Stewart was named an acting lieutenant.

Lt. Blonigen had been on an extended sick leave, and had been seeking a disability retirement. He was turned down twice by the county retirement board, and had exhausted his sick leave benefits.

One other lieutenant, William Nee, is also nearing retirement, but recently decided to stay on for another six months. He had previously announced October as his retirement date, but explained that with two children still in college, he was not prepared to live on retirement pay.

With Blonigen's return to work and Nee's decision not to retire, Stewart would have reverted to a private, had he not been appointed as a deputy chief.

Chief Daniel Wandell said that the position of a second deputy had been needed for some time, and that Blonigen's return seemed as good a time as any to create the post. He said that the matter would come before the special town meeting for funding.

Stewart, who has a bachelor's degree in fire science, will work from 4 to 12 p.m., five days a week, and will be in charge of training and arson investigation. Deputy Chief Walter Sowyrda is in charge of fire prevention.

Asbestos work nearly completed

Superintendent of Schools Dr. Carol Sager August 10 told the school committee that the asbestos work on all schools should be completed by the end of the week and would not in any way interfere with the opening of school.

Originally, the superintendent and the board feared that the extensive work on the Wildwood School could delay the opening of that building until October. That school's asbestos problem required encapsulation, a process that would close off the building while the ceiling was sprayed with a special paint that would seal in the asbestos.

This work could not be done by town employees because it is far too extensive. If the town, with the help of Representative Miceli, had not been able to waive the normal bidding process, the work could indeed have delayed the opening of the Wildwood School, and students there would have been temporarily bused with their teachers to either of the two intermediate schools.

During that same meeting, the committee unanimously approved the Abundant Life Christian School and Learning Center. School committees are required to approve private schools within their school district to assure that the education offered at the private schools is at least equal to that offered in the public schools.

Reverend Everett Reed, Pastor of the First Baptist Church, spoke on behalf of the school and told the committee that he would agree to the periodic basic skills testing of students and inspection of the school's programs. He also said that parents who are eligible will not be reimbursed for transportation costs until at least half way through the school year to prevent prematurely reimbursing parents for children who may only stay at the school for a short time.

Wilmington man perishes in automobile accident

A 20-year-old Wilmington man died early Tuesday morning at the Regional Health Center from injuries sustained when his car went off the road.

Scott A. Churchill, of 708 Woburn St. was fatally injured when his 1964 Chevy convertible struck a boulder and an apple tree at the intersection of Woburn Street and Wing Road. The accident occurred at 2:54 a.m.

Firefighters used the "Jaws of Life" to extricate Churchill from the car. He was unconscious when removed from the car, and died about an hour later at the health center.

Georgianna and John White

Whites celebrate 60th anniversary

John White Sr. and Georgianna Sanderson White celebrated their 60th anniversary quietly at their home August 12.

The couple was married in the Church of the Epiphany in Winchester by the Rev. Mr. Evans, rector, August 12, 1923, and spent the first seven years of married life in North Woburn.

Remember the old North Woburn car barns? Not many people do. They were located about 100 yards southerly of the lot where the Mary Altavesta School is today, a large rambling structure in which the streetcars were stored at night for over half a century.

John and Anna, as she was known, lived on the hill, overlooking the car barns, and overlooking the lilacs along Main Street. The car barns are gone, but the lilacs remain to this day.

John was an electric welder and he worked for the North Woburn Machine Company, Carl Neilson. That was about the time that a new plant was built for the company. John remembers the old wooden building which stood along Nichols Street, and the older machinists who worked in that building. Carl Neilson was one of those machinists.

His memory of Carl Neilson (a cousin of the publisher) is one of a gigantic, deep-voiced man. He was, John says, the strongest man he ever knew. Carl drove a Model T (Ford) truck which had been geared down to carry heavy loads.

Another person John remembers was Mike Brogna. Mike's great-grandchildren operate restaurants today. Mike worked in the old Merrimack Chemical plant in North Woburn all day, and then cut hair in his barbershop in North Woburn Village, as it is called, until 10 p.m., six days a week. Mike was a worker, and he lived into his eighth decade.

John and Anna moved to Wilmington after seven years of marriage to live on Glen Road, the same home in which they live today. There were six boys and a girl. One of the boys (a twin) died, but the rest are alive with children of their own.

Since 1931 until the present time they have lived in their home on Glen Road at the corner of King Street. That, for living, is almost a record, in Wilmington.

Commentary

Job filled, but questions remain

by Debbi Michals

Everyone can sleep a little easier now. One of the biggest issues in Wilmington recently, the election of a high school principal, has been — at least temporarily — resolved.

Before anyone starts to feel too comfortable about all of this, maybe there are a few issues that need to be discussed, hopefully for the last time.

For starters, the whole process should have been a relatively simple procedure. Although stalemates have been known to occur in other school systems when similar decisions have to be made, the controversy, innuendos, and accusations should have been left out of the whole process. Suspicion does not foster the spirit of cooperation and compromise.

Still, if dirty dealings and other issues lie beneath the surface of the recent deadlock, perhaps it was beneficial that they come out. Although no truths or great revelations were made from all the accusations that were circulating, some of the questions that were raised throughout the proceedings certainly do deserve answers.

Like, for example, why did Dr. Sager bring in for an interview any candidate she could not recommend to the school committee? The candidate in question is, of course, West Intermediate School Principal William Fay, the obvious choice of the school committee.

Dr. Sager said she called Fay in for an interview for two reasons: first, because she felt if she didn't invite him for an interview, the committee would have demanded it, and second, because it has been past practice to invite all candidates from within the school system for an interview.

Whether or not it has been a past practice, the policy should be re-evaluated. Why waste anyone's time bringing in candidates that do not meet the superintendent's qualifications for the job? In the business world, no company would invite any job applicant for an interview unless they felt that person may indeed meet their needs. School systems, particularly Wilmington, should adopt that same policy.

Another big question is what the committee hopes to gain by not reposting the position while science director Richard DeRosa serves as acting principal. Throughout the entire process there have been accusations made that five of the six committee members had committed their votes to Fay prior to any of the interviews. Whether this is true has never been conclusively determined; however, if committee members have no commitment to any one candidate, why are they refusing to look at a wider list of possible applicants? It's possible that there is someone out there now who may not have been looking for a job when the committee first posted the position. What do they have to lose by at least looking at a few more applications?

Moreover, it is certainly in the best interests of the children of Wilmington to have a shot at the best possible principal for their high school. The only chance the committee has at finding the best man is to keep looking. It's also the only chance they have at finding a permanent principal who will be agreeable to both the superintendent and the board. Why, then, would they refuse to repost?

John Brooks said he does not want to see any of the candidates from the previous list eliminated. The issue is, however, that if someone is not truly qualified for the job, maybe he should be eliminated from the list of so-called finalists.

Although Brooks has never openly stated who his choice would be, by his remarks at various meetings, it is obvious that he prefers Fay. So do many other committee members, and that is fine. What is curious about all of this, however, is the rigidity of their commitment to the man.

Everyone has said if Dr. Sager brought forth all six of those applicants, they must be six people she could live with as principal. What about the school committee? Shouldn't they be six people the school committee can live with, too? After all, the board had a chance to question Sager's list of six candidates from the start, and they could have questioned why she asked any of them in if the board felt that they were not qualified. They also could have asked Sager if she felt any of the six were not qualified for the job.

It is curious, too, that from the six men interviewed for the job, there was only one candidate who would please the majority of the board, yet three who would be agreeable to the superintendent. Who, then, is truly trying to select a mutually satisfying candidate? And what does the board know about any of these men that would make them eliminate five of the six interviewed and stick firmly by only one inside candidate? If they do know something, why wouldn't the superintendent, who works within the school system daily and who has obviously taken a big risk by defying the wishes of the school committee, also know?

It is no secret that Dr. Sager has put her job on the line by taking the position she has in refusing to recommend Fay for the principalship. Some members have expressed a desire to be on the committee that fires Sager. Why would she be willing to risk her job as well as her future relationship with the committee as she has over this issue? It would be very easy to blindly give in to the committee's wishes, and live happily ever after, as the saying goes, but Sager won't do that. She said she can't recommend somebody she doesn't feel can commit himself 100 percent to the job. Fay has various outside activities such as Rotary Club and a part ownership in a private business that could take away from the time he spends as high school principal and which could be considered inappropriate roles for a school official.

Yes, Fay is popular among the residents. He grew up here, served on the school committee, and has worked here for many years. No one denies that he is a very personable man. He doesn't deny, too, that he could affect the outcome of an election if he endorsed a candidate.

Questions have also been raised as to why any committee member would be disappointed that North Intermediate School principal Dr. Joseph Connelly applied for the job. The board should be pleased when any of their employees strive for higher ambitions. Yet Connelly said that one board member expressed disappointment at his application because this person feared the recent controversy would result if both intermediate school principals applied for the job.

Why, too, did John Brooks refuse to vote for Connelly as acting principal? He said he was afraid to create a vacancy at the North Intermediate School, but would he be afraid of creating the same vacancy at the West Intermediate School if Fay's name had come up?

Despite the fact that an acting principal has been hired, the issue is far from dead. It's just quieted down for a while. The school committee still has to find a permanent principal. Do they plan to keep reshaping the issue meeting after meeting, using the names of the six candidates who they couldn't agree on the first time around? Do they secretly hope DeRosa will work out in the position, which could secure him the job permanently and put an end to the controversy? Or do they hope, which is more likely, that by not reposting they can continue to pull for Fay? These are questions that will need to be answered as the search for a permanent principal continues.

Committee members, residents, and the superintendent should keep in mind two simple questions in considering anyone for the permanent principalship of Wilmington High School: Can this person serve as a disciplinarian and properly control the behavior and morale of students and teachers in the facility? And can this person effectively implement new educational programs, such as all facets of computer training, and also provide a link between education and industry? If the board or the superintendent feel that the answer to either of these questions is "no", then perhaps they should reconsider or eliminate any candidate in question?

In the meantime, the board should work with Richard DeRosa to make his transition to the acting principalship a smooth one and to keep Wilmington High School running efficiently until this issue is permanently resolved.

Open Meeting Law prevails over bylaw, says assistant DA

by Debbi Michals

A 1956 Tewksbury town bylaw which prohibits the use of tape recorders during a town meeting without the consent of the majority of voters present is no longer valid, according to David Linsky, assistant district attorney for Middlesex County. The bylaw, he said, conflicts with the 1975 state Open Meeting Law, which allows for all public meetings of governmental bodies to be recorded as long as the recording does not interfere with the process of the meeting. State laws generally supersede all municipal statutes.

The question about the validity of the bylaw came as a result of the July 28 special town meeting when two radio reporters wanted to take tape recorders into the meeting. One reporter, Barbara Miller of WLLH asked a checker at the door if she could take her tape recorder in, but, Miller said, she was told she would have to leave the recorder outside the meeting room.

When Miller entered the meeting, she saw the other reporter, Darlene McCarthy of WCAP, with a tape recorder, so she went back to the checker to ask why she had not been allowed to take her recorder into the meeting as McCarthy had.

At that point, the checker went to Moderator Bill Hurton and asked if the two reporters would be allowed to tape the meeting. Hurton stopped the meeting and read from a booklet of town bylaws: "No automatic recording device shall be used at any Town Meeting or Public Hearing, without the consent of the majority of the voters present. After consent is given, the recording shall be placed in the custody of the Town Clerk and transcripts shall be made only under the supervision of such officer."

Although several voters shouted their approval for the taping, McCarthy said that she had not been recording the meeting, and the issue was then dropped.

Later, however, McCarthy and WCAP News Director Bill Smith sent a letter to the district attorney's office asking for clarification "as to whether the action of the moderator in permitting unobtrusive use of a tape recorder only upon vote of the town meeting is permissible under the Open Meeting Law." Smith further explained in his letter that although McCarthy had not been taping at the time the issue was raised, "it is entirely possible that recording events later in that same meeting would have been deemed appropriate."

In response to Smith's letter, Linsky wrote to Moderator Bill Hurton, stating, "If Mr. Smith's allegations are correct, then the Open Meeting Law has been violated. The Open Meeting Law specifically provides, 'A meeting of a governmental body may be recorded by a person in attendance by means of a tape recorder or any other means of sonic reproduction except when a meeting is held in executive session; provided that in such recording there is no active interference with the conduct of the meeting.'"

A person does not need the permission of the majority of voters to record a meeting, and the tape recorder does not have to be turned over to the town clerk or transcripts made under her supervision, according to Linsky.

Of course, a more serious situation could have evolved from all this. Under the Open Meeting Law, if a violation is established, the complainant, in this case WCAP, could request a Superior Court Order declaring all action of the July 28 meeting invalid. That would mean that all votes taken that evening would have to be taken again, and the first step to solving the town's water problem could have been set back over a month.

Fortunately, as Linsky explained in his letter to Hurton, WCAP does not want to invalidate the July 28 town meeting, but was merely seeking to clarify the issue to prevent it from recurring in the future.

Although the bylaw does not have to be stricken from the town's listing of bylaws, Linsky explained, it can no longer be upheld because it has been superseded by the state's Open Meeting Law.

Hooper honored

Former Wilmington Housing Authority member George Hooper was honored Monday night by board members and residents following the scheduled housing authority meeting.

Dick Wilson, Representative Jim Miceli's aide, presented Hooper with citations and commendations from the House of Representatives and Senator Paul Tsongas for his years of service to Wilmington as housing authority member and chairman. Among the honors was also a letter of appreciation to Hooper from Governor Michael Dukakis.

Henry Borazzo, executive director of the housing authority presented Hooper with a plaque on behalf of the board for his years of service on the housing authority.

letter to the editor

Dear Larz:
George and I were in an auto accident Wednesday. Within minutes the police and firemen were there.

We will never be able to thank both departments and the neighbors there for their kind and efficient help. The only one I recognized by name was Joe Cuoco, but I want to thank everybody for their concern and kindness.

Sincerely,
Marion Boylen

Will handle three jobs

Aylward named acting athletic director

by Tewksbury Editor

Jim Brown Redmen football Coach Bob Aylward is going to be a little busier this year than in years past. Aylward, as the only applicant for the post, was chosen last Wednesday to fill the shoes of Athletic Director Mickey Sullivan for one year.

Sullivan is on a one year leave of absence from his position as athletic director and math teacher while he and his brother, Timothy, build the Indian Ridge Condominiums on Shawshen Street.

Aylward was the unanimous choice of Louis Carciofi, Chairman Tom Cooke and Jim Sullivan, the three committee members present on August 10.

Aylward said he was going to assume the duties of his $4187 a year job as acting athletic director the day after his appointment. Even though the salary for athletic director is $4187, the committee voted to give Aylward two weeks additional pay for starting the job two weeks before the start of the school year, a practice that committee members said was traditional during Sullivan's tenure.

In addition to his athletic director's duties, Aylward will also coach the Redmen varsity football team and teach three TMHS physical education classes rather than the four that other department heads are required to teach.

Aylward will also be required to process applications for use of the school's athletic facilities, a duty that was handed to Sullivan when Administrative Assistant Frank Antonelli Jr. left the system for Wilmington. Antonelli has not been replaced.

Aylward received the appointment and additional two weeks pay by unanimous consent, but Carciofi opposed allowing him to teach only three classes a day when all other department heads are now required to teach four.

Sullivan, who received the majority of his salary as a math teacher, was only required to teach one class a day.

The committee at their August 3 meeting voted to require all department heads and directors to teach the maximum amount of classes called for under the teachers' contract. That contract stipulates that department heads and directors will not be required to teach more than four classes a day while spending the remainder of their time performing administrative duties related to their department.

But, saying that Aylward's workload would prohibit him from teaching four classes a day, Superintendent of Schools John Wynn recommended that Aylward be exempted from the rule for one year.

Aylward told the committee that the administrative duties of both the AD and coaching jobs would probably force him away from the classroom on many occasions.

Aylward said that college football recruiters have approached him during the school day on many occasions, and added that they sometimes interrupt his classes. He argued that if he is required to teach four classes along with the added responsibility of the AD's job he could be torn away from the classroom more often.

But, Carciofi said he didn't think teaching four classes in addition to the other duties would increase the workload that much. He said the AD's secretary, Mary Maguire, will be able to fall back on her many years of experience in the AD's office and lend assistance to Aylward. Maguire, Carciofi said, "May very well be able to do the job all by herself. I don't like the idea of making exceptions here," something he later added has "been done all along."

Wynn countered however, that the four period a day teaching need extra hours to perform all his duties and that by asking him to teach four periods a day, run the football program and fill-in for Mickey Sullivan, he could be interrupted in the classroom more often than not.

He said he didn't want to ask for a favor, "but I don't want to be made a fool of either."

Aylward said that Sullivan had always been accessible to the public and the press and that he wanted to maintain that tradition. He added he couldn't do that if required to teach four classes a day.

As for the extra two weeks pay, Aylward told reporters he "had no idea about it." He told the committee that he has always started his coaching job early by running a football camp a week before school opened and had considered the "16 hours a day of work" at the camp included in his coach's salary.

if Sullivan does not return from leave.

"You don't know what to speculate as to what his (Sullivan's) business future is," Aylward said.

Among Aylward's list of priorities will be to call a meeting with his coaching staff to assess what their needs will be for the upcoming school year and to "maintain some of the fine things Mickey has done."

With a master's degree in physical education, Aylward said he applied for the post because of his lifetime dedication to his major. He said he met all of the qualifications, and now that he has the post, he is ready to do whatever it takes to maintain the athletic programs.

"I'm sure this (extra workload) will also entail many hours of work at night," he said, while praising his wife and load may have been one of the reasons why the committee only received one application for the job. "I wouldn't be too surprised if that is the reason why we only have one applicant," Wynn said.

It was Chairman Cooke who suggested that the committee extend the two extra weeks of pay to Aylward. He said that past practice saw Mickey Sullivan requesting that he be allowed to start the job two weeks ahead of time in order to get the jump on the fall sports program. Cooke suggested that Aylward may very well need the extra time because he has to get acclimated to the job and will be pressed for time once the football season starts.

Cooke also supported the three period teaching load by saying that Aylward will be worked very hard.

Aylward told the committee that he very infrequently asks favors and has "never asked for anything I couldn't handle." But, he said, he felt he would Carciofi said he was concerned that Aylward may have given up his football coaching position if he won appointment as acting AD, but added he was pleased to hear that Aylward would continue both tasks.

"I feel confident on both ends," Aylward said.

Although Carciofi was opposed to the reduction in Aylward's teaching load, he said he would favor Aylward receiving the additional two weeks pay for starting the AD's job early.

Following the meeting, Aylward told reporters he has always had "aspirations" of becoming an AD since he was an assistant coach at Wilmington High School ten years ago. He took over the helm of the Tewksbury football program in 1974.

Aylward also said that it may be difficult to do the job for a year and have to give it up. However, he said he would consider taking the job fulltime family for their continued support and understanding.

He also said that while he is away at the week long preseason football camp in Boxford starting August 28, he knows he can count on the support and assistance of Sullivan and Maguire.

He said the fall sports lineup, which already has tentative schedules, is just about ready to go, and that it will be a matter of working out a few kinks.

He also said that he intends to impart some of his coaching philosophy on the staff, a philosophy based on his feeling that "coaching is the epitome of teaching." He said that the coaches probably get to know students much better than teachers, because they work together for several hours a day on the field as opposed to limited

Aylward will create family atmosphere

I assume that most of the Tewksbury High School coaching staff knows one Robert Aylward, so there really is no need to tell them that they will be working with, and not so much for, a man that will breed a family atmosphere, where meetings, back slapping and open discussions will be the standard operating procedure.

Tewksbury could do no better than to hire Bob Aylward as its acting athletic director. As a coaching veteran of 10 years in Tewksbury and a few more prior to that in Wilmington, Aylward knows first hand the problems and frustrations that go along with the heavy workload of a high school coach.

Aylward not only knows about the problems, but he understands them completely. He has never been known to duck a problem without first attempting to solve it through compassionate discussion.

He will be at little disadvantage because he indeed is a coach first and an administrator second. The administrative side of the job probably will be a bit foreign and not all that important to Aylward at the outset. But he will catch on, and what the heck, dealing with people problems is over half the battle in high school athletics.

Sure, pushing paper, arranging schedules and finding time during the day (and night) are all important. But Aylward is a people pusher first in the finest sense of the word. He will get the most that his people have to give, and if his people can't give as much as the acting athletic director gives, then and only then, will they be in trouble.

Another chance for Ecklund

Lowell welterweight Dick Ecklund has yet another chance to prove that he is more than an adept journeyman fighter.

Ecklund, a loser to Sugar Ray Leonard and England's Davey Boy Green, supposedly will get a shot at Nino LaRocca on the undercard of the September 15 Ray Mancini fight at Madison Square Garden.

Recently Ecklund turned up on the undercard of the Sean Mannion fight at the Cape Cod Coliseum and handily topped Terry Crawley in what never should have been a split decision.

Ecklund took the 10 round bout with Crawley on a week's notice, and still took it to the home town (Crawley is from Hyannis) favorite for most of the way, taking time out to pace himself in the middle rounds while adding some unnecessary clowning later in the fight.

Now Ecklund is a good fighter who has never been known to train particularly hard. But he has good boxing skills, and with a month to get ready for what is a 'big' fight, who knows...

Red Sox roll to sixth championship

The Tewksbury Little League Red Sox rolled to a record setting sixth consecutive National League championship with an awesome 20 straight wins. They became the first Little League team since the two leagues were formed in 1971 to go undefeated in the regular season. This season was marred by only the loss of the Town Championship.

After winning the Town Championship the last two years, the Red Sox lost a tough extra inning game to a very good American League champion Angels by a 3-2 score.

The Red Sox were led by six 12-year-old boys who had excellent seasons, Chris Mader, and John McCarthy were the mainstays of the pitching staff with a combined 17 wins. Jay Rideout with six homeruns, Chris Mader with seven and John McCarthy with one homerun led the attack. Neil McNeil was the sparkplug leadoff batter that drove the opposition crazy with his baserunning. Dean Graffeo was the defensive leader in the outfield, also chipping in key hits and scoring many big runs. Gary (Boggy) Strong played an outstanding firstbase and contributed clutch hits down the stretch.

Jay Rideout and Neil McNeil were the outstanding defensive combination at short and second. Chris Mader and John McCarthy in addition to their hitting and pitching feats, were defensive stalwarts at catcher and thirdbase respectively. Eleven-year-old pitchers

Shawn Brady and Bobby Marshall chipped in with three wins off the hill. Tommy Jones did outstanding jobs both in the field and at bat. Jeff Rideout possibly set a record by playing all nine positions during the season while swinging a big bat on offense. The four remaining 10-year-old boys, Fran Correia, Chris Aiese, David Conti and Keith Cooney enjoyed an outstanding season for first year players.

The team was managed by Fred Doherty, with coaches Dave Lindsey and Ron Olson. A special thank you to Joe Strong, Guy Mader and Gerry Rideout for their help during practices, to the team good luck charm, Tina Rideout batgirl, and to the parents who supported the team so well throughout the season.

Wilmington Softball League playoffs

Wilmington Ford wins pair

Wilmington Ford and Bill and Bob's both advanced in the opening round single elimination competition of the Wilmington Softball League playoffs last week.

Sunday night first game winners Wilmington Ford made it two straight playoff victories with an 18-5 blasting of Dunkirk Express. Dan Ellard ripped a single and a triple to drive in six runs for the easy winners. Ken Crowley helped the winning cause with three hits. Losing pitcher Paul Sferazza and Rob Santo each had a single and a triple against winning chucker Jim Crowley.

In other playoff action at Tom Aprile Memorial Park Sunday night, Bill and Bob's got by Analog Devices, 11-10 behind the big bats of Bob Stewart and John O'Melia with three hits apiece. Jim Buck drove in the winning run with a single in the bottom of the seventh inning. Jim Shanahan and Bob Gillis paced the AD attack with three hits apiece.

The other Sunday night playoff tilt saw Analog Devices bounce past Dynamics Research, 10-2 behind Ken Burns' four-hitter. Dennis Wilson, Carlton Lane and Al Rodenheiser slapped two hits apiece for the winners. Mark Fletcher stuck in an RBI single for Dynamics Research.

Playoff action began last Wednesday night with Wilmington Ford getting past Pepsi-Cola, 6-4. Fred Oishaw and Paul Lyman ripped two hits apiece, while winning pitcher Jim Crowley drove home the winning run with a double in the bottom of the sixth inning.

Over 30 Division
Tom Hamilton allowed three hits, walked no one and faced only 24 batters in leading McNamara Tire to a 2-0 decision over Joe Barry Oil last week. Bill Cawthon tripled in the bottom of the second inning and scored on Doug Smith's single for a 1-0 Mac lead. The winners scored again in the fourth frame when Cawthon singled and scored on Smith's double. Joe Barry Oil hurler Frank Stone also pitched a fine game, allowing no walks while fanning three.

Charlie's Auto Body bombed Stelio's, 14-1 behind Steve Cail's three hits.

Suburban Pony League

Wildcats gain championship round

Jets 8 Cats 2

Last Monday the Pony League Wildcats continued the semifinal round of the playoffs, losing to the Reading Jets, 8-2 and deadlocking the series at one game apiece.

Despite the score, Mike Fiorenza pitched a complete game, allowing only seven hits in seven innings. Rat Palmer (two for three) and Mouse Scolastico contributed the offense for the Cats in this losing cause. Two fine defensive plays were turned in by Frog Edmonds.

Cats 12 Jets 5

Tuesday the Wildcats entered the championship round of this tournament by topping the Jets in an away game, 12-5. Moose O'Donnell went the distance, limiting the Jets to six hits. The offense was led by Jungle Hanafin (three for five, including a two run triple), Brian Moon (three for five and two RBI's), Palmer (two for four and two RBI's) and Scolastico, who contributed a two run single.

The defensive star of this game was Weed Poole with two putouts and nine assists at the hot corner.

Also gaining the finals of this Pony League championship were the Y's Men from Reading. They came from behind to beat the Lynnfield Gold 4-3 and 5-4 after losing the first game of that series.

Y's Men 7 Cats 5

The Wildcats lost the first game of the championship round in a heart-breaker, 7-5 Wednesday in Reading. Hanafin went the route, allowing only six hits and striking out eight. Poole hit a tremendous homerun for the Cats, and excellent defensive plays were turned in by Mud Munroe and Fiorenza.

This game was decided in the seventh inning when O'Donnell ripped a line drive down the third base line with the tying runs on second and third. However, S.L. Prsti made an excellent defensive play for the Y's Men and prevented the Cats from scoring any additional runs.

Cats 14 Y's Men 7

Thursday the Wildcats soundly defeated their Reading rivals, 14-7 in a rain delayed game in Wilmington. Lark Gorski pitched a strong six-hitter for the victors.

The offense was primed by Hanafin, Moon, O'Donnell and Gorski, who hit a bases loaded triple in the second inning, putting this game out of reach early.

Championship game

Y's Men 4 Cats 2

The final game of this tournament was played in Reading Saturday morning, as the Wildcats lost a thriller and the championship, 4-2. O'Donnell started the game for the Cats with only three day's rest. He went three innings, allowing only two runs, before being forced to leave after being hit by a line drive.

Hanafin relieved with two days rest, and pitched the final four innings, allowing only one hit. Jungle also provided the Cats' only offense with a triple and single. Palmer reached base safely three times on walks. Joey McMenimen made an excellent defensive play in rightfield in the first inning.

The game could have swung in the fifth inning, as Moon hit a vicious shot to left center with Hanafin on third. Unfortunately for the Cats, leftfielder Margasion made a brilliant running catch, robbing Moon of extra bases and keeping the Cats from tying the score.

In no way did this loss mar the excellent season turned in by all the Wildcat players, many of whom gave up vacations and other activities. Both the Cats and the Mavericks can be proud of their seasons.

Wilmington 6 Dracut 1

An all-star town tournament is being held in Reading this week. Six towns will be represented, including Wilmington, Dracut, Burlington, Reading, Wakefield and Winchester.

Sunday afternoon a Wilmington team comprised of 14 and 15-year-olds from the Mavericks and Wildcats defeated Dracut, 6-1 behind the strong pitching of Robbie Lanzillo, who had eight strikeouts.

Excellent defensive plays were turned in by Brian Wetzler at shortstop, Mike Fay in left field and 'Mud' Munroe catching. Munroe was on base four times for Wilmington with two singles and two walks. A beautiful suicide bunt by Peter Campbell scored Lanzillo and highlighted the third inning when Wilmington put this game out of reach by scoring three runs. Tommy O'Reilly and 'Rat' Palmer also scored for Wilmington.

By winning Sunday, Wilmington advances to a round-robin double elimination series starting Monday night.

Player registrations will also continue throughout the month of August. All returning players from the 1982 season, as well as all newcomers who wish to participate in the upcoming program, are asked to sign-up at the Glen Road School field, Monday through Thursday from 6 to 8 p.m.

All youngsters signing-up must be accompanied by a parent or guardian and take along a copy of their birth certificate. Also, each player should be prepared to start practice immediately following registration. The required dress for all youngsters is a t-shirt, shorts and sneakers or cleats.

Age requirements for all youngsters in the program is eight to 14 years of age. In order to be eligible for the 1983 season, a youngster must have been born between August 1, 1969 and July 31, 1975. In addition, all 14-year-olds as of August 1, 1983 whose birthdate falls between January 1, 1969 and January 31, 1969, may still be eligible to play, depending upon their weight.

Registration fee for the 1983 season is $20.00 per child, $30.00 for two children per family and $40.00 for three or more children per family.

Wilmington will field three intertown teams in 1983. The Chargers A, B and C traveling teams will compete in the Merrimack Valley Conference, while there will be a D instructional team for first year players.

Wilmington Pop Warner President Len Howard has announced that the Chargers A squad will compete in two pre-season jamborees. The Chargers will go against Stoneham in the Lynn Pop Warner Jamboree at the Manning Bowl, Saturday, August 27 at 3:20 p.m., followed by competition in the Lowell Pop Warner Jamboree at Cawley Stadium, Sunday night, August 28.

time in the classroom. He also said things are different on the field than in the classroom, and that coaches can better help youngsters deal with growing up.

Although he said coaches are "not compensated nearly enough," Aylward said he will ask the staff to adhere to his coaching philosophy of working endless hours with the kids. "I feel the same way in this administrative position, that coaches put in a ton of time."

Although he said he didn't talk to any potential candidates about the job, Aylward said there are many "outstanding candidates" for the post at the junior and senior high schools. However, he speculated that the four period teaching load may have been a reason why those candidates did not apply for the job.

Wilmington Tennis Club

Junior tennis tournament August 27, 28

Junior tournament

The Wilmington Tennis Club will sponsor a boys and girls Junior Tennis Tournament the weekend of August 27. The tournament is free to all junior club members not playing on the adult ladders.

Other town residents 16 or under will be welcome, but must pay the $3 club membership fee. This will entitle them to all club privileges for the year. If enough players sign up there will be two divisions- 12 and under and 16 and under. There may be a consolation round depending upon the number of signups.

To sign up and for information, call Dave Kwiatkowski (boys) 658-3653; Maura O'Beirne (girls) 658-9740 or Pat Hoffman, 658-7411.

Club activities

The club has been very active the past month, and plans to continue with its annual fall singles, doubles and mixed doubles tournaments the weekends of September 10, 17 and 24. For information or to sign up, call Director Wendell Holmes, 658-8358.

The Fourth of July Tournament sponsored by the Fourth of July Committee and run by the Wilmington Tennis Club was a success in spite of the blistering heat throughout the finals. The mixed doubles was won by Tony and Judy Page over Dave Barstow and Jerry Bishop.

The womens' doubles was won by Janice and Lisa Rudnicki over Irene Hoffman and Janet Cahill. The mens' doubles went to Barry Cahill and Pat Hoffman over Tony Page and Dave Webster.

The club's annual cookout was held recently at the Woburn Street School and was a success, with good fun, food and tennis. The club would like to thank Barry Cahill for organizing the event.

Tennis ladders

The ladder play has been very active this year. Bobby Williams has his hands full keeping number one on the mens' singles ladder, while the number two spot is up for grabs. Veterans Kevin Field, Pat Hoffman, Barry Cahill, Dave Webster and Dick Bova have been trying to keep the younger players like Tim Curran, Sean O'Beirne, Vin Iocco, Dave Kwiatkowski and Bob Perry from making it look like a junior ladder. They've had a tough time with the kids.

The womens' singles have had similar problems, but Joanie O'Beirne and Judy Conant have done pretty well holding down the number one and two spots. Youngsters Julie Curran, Beth Conant and Susan Gillespie could still displace them in the last three weeks.

The mixed doubles ladder has been the most active, with the O'Beirnes currently number one and the Cahills number two. However, both these teams have not been there long, and may have a short reign. Jerry Bishop and Ben Waruszyla may have an advantage being the only non-married couple in the running.

The mens' doubles have not been as active. Barry Cahill and Pat Hoffman are number one, but have had some close calls with Dick Bova and Arnie Aprile and the team of Tony Page and Dave Webster.

The womens' doubles ladder has had some close matches, but Joanie O'Beirne and Nancy Newhouse are still number one. Judy and Beth Conant have given them some trouble in the number two slot.

The junior boys and girls ladders have been active this year, with Steven Cutone still holding the top spot for the boys. However, Bobby Seville, Brian Savosik and Mark Eddy all have a shot at the top spot.

Claire O'Beirne is currently number one for the girls ladder, but Lynne Newhouse and Cindy Edgerly are close behind. Kristen Curran and newcomers Heidi Field and Maureen O'Leary are also playing very well and could challenge the leaders.

SUDDEN WISDOM-TOOTH PAIN
If you have a partially erupted wisdom tooth that suddenly begins causing you pain, you should contact your dentist immediately for help. Pericoronitis (infection in the wisdom tooth area) is often caused when food and bacteria are trapped under the gum line. Until a wisdom tooth is fully erupted, it may be difficult to keep it free of food particles which begin to decay and attract bacteria. Unfortunately, partially erupted wisdom teeth tend to decay easily. When the nerve is also infected this can cause the severe pain of toothache.

To help relieve the pain until you get to your dentist, you can rinse your mouth thoroughly with a solution of warm, salt water, usually one teaspoonful of salt to a glass of warm water. Normally, aspirin is not recommended to relieve this pain because it may cause bleeding problems if the tooth has to be extracted.

Any pain caused by a wisdom tooth infection is considered a dental emergency and should be treated as soon as possible by your dentist.

residents earlier this year, and about 30 said they had no preference in the selection of high school principal, 12 favored the acting principal (Harold Garrett), four or five favored Dr. Connelly, and at least 60 preferred West Intermediate Principal Bill Fay.

Zukas, who has been the most outspoken board member regarding the issue of a favorite candidate and vote promising, told at least two people that she would have voted for Dr. Sager's first choice, David Sweeney, if she hadn't promised her vote to Bill Fay as early as December, two anonymous sources allege.

There was a brief confrontation between Linda McMenimen and Mitchell Spiris while the committee was considering an acting principal. Spiris, the former assistant superintendent for Lexington schools, addressed the board, saying that when he heard Sager's third suggestion, he really thought the compromise was progressing. He also said that the superintendent should not suggest anyone she knew the committee would reject, as they have rejected those people in the past.

At that point, McMenimen told Spiris, "You're not a neutral party." She said he was hired to come in as a consultant during the selection of an assistant superintendent many years ago. Spiris responded saying, "And Dr. Sager was one of the candidates that Dr. Pierce and I brought forth."

"You brought forth?" McMenimen retorted.

"Yes," Spiris replied. "I don't want to get into this," McMenimen said, "but you're not entirely neutral."

A short time later during a recess in the meeting, Spiris confronted McMenimen and demanded that she publicly apologize to him. She refused, saying that there was a link between Spiris and Bill Fay. At one point, Spiris refused to let McMenimen pass him in the aisle, and she said, "Don't you touch me."

At the end of the meeting, Spiris approached McMenimen again. "You can stand there and tell me you're not prejudiced toward Billy?" McMenimen asked.

"I don't even know Billy," he replied.

"Then, I'm sorry," McMenimen said.

Two motions for Dr. Connelly and Mr. Sweeney both failed three to two, with Peterson and McMenimen casting the only affirmative votes. Phil Fenton was not present. One motion for DeRosa failed, with only Brooks and McMenimen voting in the affirmative. During the second ballot for DeRosa, however, Peterson cast an affirmative vote. The chairman said, "It's time to put prejudices behind us." He stated he would vote affirmatively on all names submitted by Dr. Sager for acting principal. In the first ballot for DeRosa, however, he cast a negative vote, and later said it was because he did not feel confident enough to vote for DeRosa. During the second vote for DeRosa, though, Peterson did cast the deciding vote that secured the acting principalship for DeRosa.

Altron and WRA agree on sale of Jewel Drive land

Altron has agreed to purchase 3.25 acres of land along Jewel Drive in South Wilmington, and the Wilmington Redevelopment Authority (WRA) has agreed to sell. The price of the land is to be $30,000. About half the land is occupied by a pond.

The agreement was sealed August 16 at a meeting of the WRA. Passing of papers is to take place August 29.

Altron, while it has made no announcement, is planning an expansion of its facilities toward Main Street. The plans are being made at this time.

The sale of this lot leaves the WRA with one lot of land still in its possession - Lot 9, of 10 acres area. The lot is at the end of Jewel Drive, near the North Woburn line. The WRA is considering the announcement of plans in its next meeting.

A contract has been let to complete the construction of Jewel Drive. The AMC Construction Company of Methuen has the contract, and the price is reportedly $120,000. No work has been done yet.

The drainage ditches, about which there had been difficulties in the past, are again silting up. The marafi nets in the waterways are nearly collapsed. The ditch that was to be dug across the Olin land, to drain the area, has not been dug after a three year wait.

There has to be an agreement with the headquarters of the Olin Head Company before the ditch can be dug. The WRA says it is awaiting a communication from those headquarters in Tennessee.

New attack against SS

A new attack is being launched in Washington against Social Security. This is evident from a newspaper article August 11. The article mentioned that three Congressmen, one of them is Brian Donnelly, D-Mass) and two senators are going to try to stop any future increases in the Social Security after the summer break. The quotation from these men in the article was "why can't the elderly people do with what they have now?" sacrifices have to be made to stop the Federal budget from increasing any more.

As an elderly person on Social Security it would be wise to send letters to your Congressmen and Senators, along with a letter to the President and Congressman Brian Donnelly, objecting to any further "attacks" on the Social Security checks.

ON YOUR MARK, get ready, go are these runners as they get set to run in the 13th Annual Middlesex East Road Race. The race was four miles long and started at Reading High School's field house. (Rick Karwan photo)

Over 200 runners compete

The 13th annual Middlesex East Road Race was held in less than ideal conditions on a rainy overcast evening last Thursday but over 200 entrants made it to Reading and it was Richard Benner of Reading who captured the overall first place finish in the 4 mile race with a time of 18:12. Jay Barnes of Burlington had the second best overall time of 18:45.

There were numerous categories for men, woman and youngsters plus a fun run for those so inclined. Mary Mc-Naughton of Wilmington was the first woman to finish in the fine time of 21:17. Only four persons in the entire race had better times.

Steve DeSisto of Wakefield and formerly of Reading won the Men Over 30 category with a time of 18:45, an extremely fast time while Bill O'Connor of Woburn was second with a time of 22:58.

In the Men Over 40 group, Bob Emerson of No. Reading won with a very comfortable margin of almost three minutes over his nearest competitor, Leo Connors of Reading. Emerson's time was 20:43 while Connors was 23:33. Jim Godsell of No. Reading was third.

Jim Hines had a stella race in the over 50 category as he finished ninth out of the entire field and defeated his closest over 50 competitor by almost six minutes. His time was 20:53. Frank Smith of Reading was second and C.M. Piper of Tewksbury was third.

In the Woman Over 30 category, Joan Tremberth of Reading had

Nancy Saunders of Reading set the pace in the Women Over 40 group with a time of 30:16. Janet Trevor of Reading was close behind at 31:33 followed by Diane Cain at 32:33. Marti Elliott of Lynnfield was fourth.

The High School Boys age group found Fitz Hagen of Reading coming in with a time of 20:22 while Lisa DesForge led the girls with a brisk 24:55 time. The thirteen and under winners were Danielle Fuligni of Stoneham for the girls and Jim Moynihan of Wilmington for the boys. The Reading Recreation Department did an outstanding job of providing hard working personnel for the race this year as in the past and Mark Duggan came through in true fashion as Race Director. The race was sponsored by the member papers of Middlesex East Publications.

Workshop

"How to audition"

Your mouth is so dry you cannot swallow, and your breathing is shallow and raspy. Your hands — palms damp — tremble as you turn the page. Your knees knock, your voice quavers, and your heart is hammering in your ears. Diagnosis? You have an acute case of "audition nerves", and the Silver Lake Spotlighters have the cure!

The Spotlighters community theatre will offer a "How to Audition" workshop to help you learn how to overcome audition nerves, demonstrate your potential, and give a good audition.

"No director likes to watch a bad audition," said Celia Bartolotti, president of the Spotlighters and one of the workshop leaders.

"In fact, most directors want you to be good, but often actors ruin their chances for a part by not knowing how to prepare or understanding how to handle themselves once they're in an audition situation."

The "How to Audition" workshop will be held Wednesday, August 24, from 7 to 9 p.m., at the United Methodist Church, 87 Church Street, Wilmington, and will be led by a panel of experienced directors and performers. It will feature timely and practical suggestions on mental and physical preparation, how to control nervousness and make the most of your audition, as well as information on what a director looks for in an audition.

Besides Bartolotti, who is a well-known director in this area and former teacher, workshop leaders include: Lauren Cochran and Mary Sheehan, popular, local community theatre actresses with extensive experience in musical comedy; James Grana, talented director and actor with the Arlington Friends of the Drama; Kelley O'Leary, who will direct the Spotlighters' fall production of Grease and who has directed community and university theatre in the mid-west and Boston; and Suzanne Fall, a multi-talented actress whose experience includes summer stock and extensive community theatre work.

The audition workshop is open to everyone — free to Spotlighter members; a nominal fee of $3 will be charged for non-members.

To register for the August 24th "How to Audition" workshop, please call Janice Rudnicki at 657-7278 in Wilmington.

CATS

Highly trained judges from California, Colorado, Ohio and Pennsylvania will evaluate some 400 entrants at the 6th annual Cats - Plain and Fancy Allbreed Cat Show on Saturday, August 20-21, 1983 in the Grand Ballroom of the Copley Plaza Hotel, Copley Square, Boston. The show is open to the public 10:30 A.M. to 5 P.M. both days.

Cats of 26 or more breeds will be exhibited this year. In the past there have been entries from at least 22 states, from as far away as California and Texas, and 3 Canadian provinces. One of the highlights of this year's show will be the Sunday presentation of the Morris Trophy to the highest scoring household pet by Dr. G.W. Thornton, Chief of Staff of the Angell Memorial Animal Hospital. This trophy, named after that finicky cat of media fame, is as hotly contested in the feline world as Hollywood's Oscar.

Plan to come to the show early in the day - to see the judging, browse the booths featuring products with a feline theme, and visit the educational displays of Tufts and Cornell Veterinary Schools. Your admission dollars go to support various feline health, welfare and educational organizations such as Angell Memorial Animal Hospital, the scholarship fund of Tufts University School of Veterinary Medicine and the Animal Rescue League. To date, our efforts and your participation have raised more than $25,000 for these institutions. Admission is $3 for adults and $1.50 for children and senior citizens.

The Silver Lake Spotlighters are launching a membership drive and invite people of all ages to join their group. ## S.S. benefits for disabled

For over a quarter of a century, Social Security has provided basic protection against severe disability by replacing part of the family's lost income. Dover C. Crawford, Social Security district manager in Malden said recently. Monthly payments are made to disabled workers and their dependents, disabled widows and widowers, and unmarried children 18 or over who become severely disabled before age 22. Disabled beneficiaries also have Medicare coverage after receiving benefits for 24 months. A disabled worker first must have worked long enough under Social Security to be insured. In 1983, this amounts to 1½ to 8 years, depending on the worker's age. Except for blind workers, some credits must have been earned in recent years. Applicants should be aware that Social Security's medical requirements are stricter than those for most other disability programs, and only about one-third of all initial claims are allowed. A person generally must be unable to do not only his or her usual job but also any "substantial gainful work" for at least a year.

People who think they may be eligible should contact any Social Security office. Applicants can speed up their claims by having the following when they apply: Social Security numbers for themselves and their dependents; dates and places of medical treatment; claim numbers for any other benefits they may be receiving; work history; and their W-2 forms (or tax returns if self-employed) for the past 2 years.

The Social Security office will send the claim to the State Disability Determination Services (DDS) office where a decision will be made as to whether the applicant is disabled. The DDS office will get medical reports from sources the applicant has listed.

More information is available at any Social Security office. The Malden office is located at 200 Pleasant Street. The telephone number is 227-2400.

16 bed unit

NEMH experiences birthrate increase

Because of a long history of family-centered childbirth and the increased popularity of birthing rooms, New England Memorial Hospital is one of a very few community hospitals to experience an increased birthrate over the last three years.

A 16-bed unit, with a homey, well-equipped birthing room, the NEMH maternity floor uses a pairing system known as primary nursing; matching one nurse to mother and newborn to treat the family as a whole, and not as isolated units.

A nurse on the maternity unit for over two years, Linda Bedard explains that she enjoys the unit,

"Because it is family oriented and supports birthing alternatives whenever possible, such as early discharge and rooming-in for fathers as well as babies."

She continues, "A unique policy at NEMH is that parents can be involved in the care of their critically ill infant. Bonding is encouraged, allowing parents to come and go from the Nursery anytime. Another feature is that cesarean sections are performed on the unit rather than in the usual operating room..."

NEMH maternity nursing care is adapted to meet individual needs. In order to fully meet those needs, maternity nurses strive to work with families prior to their hospital stay to familiarize them with pregnancy, birth and postpartum transitions.

Realizing that a childbearing experience begins with awareness of a pregnancy and continues until the newborn is 3-4 months old, the maternity nurses have put together a selection of classes and programs entitled "The Childbearing Year". In many instances, it is the same childbirth educator teaching the classes who will assist parent(s) throughout labor and delivery. This continuity lends a personal touch to the birthing experience.

Early Bird classes are a series of four classes to address the prime concerns of parent (s) during each trimester of pregnancy, with the last class held after delivery to specifically discuss parenting issues. Each two-hour program includes films, lectures and discussions on a range of topics including nutrition, body changes, fetal growth and development, and emotional effects of pregnancy.

Newly created is a six-week program offered by the physical therapy department for the prenatal months. Meeting once weekly, the classes feature lectures on body mechanics and posture, followed by gentle exercise and relaxation segments. Permission to join must be obtained from a participant's physician.

Close to the time of birth, the unit offers couples Childbirth Education; a concentrated course on labor and delivery, meeting once weekly for six consecutive weeks. Emphasis is placed on breathing and relaxation techniques, leading to a positive labor and delivery experience.

A Refresher Course is offered to those who have attended childbirth classes with previous pregnancies. The three-session course enables participants to renew skills already acquired in breathing and relaxation.

To prepare children for the birth of a new family member, a one-session Sibling Class is offered to families. Sibling rivalry and other possible conflicts are introduced to parents while children are shown how to handle and care for their new brother or sister.

Daily groups are also held on the unit for parent (s) to discuss and demonstrate newborn care, family planning, parenting issues and self-care during the postpartum period.

After returning home, new mothers are welcome to attend Mother's Class, a relaxed, informal group who share experiences and learn from each other about parenting, infant care and postpartum exercises under the leadership of a registered nurse.

In addition, the maternity unit encourages new mothers to call the Maternity Hotline on a 24-hour basis, if any questions arise about their own or their baby's care.

At NEMH, the maternity staff wants to make each birth a unique and personal event and work closely with families to perfect their individual experiences.

For further information or to enroll in any of the above programs, call Linda Goodwin, R.N. at 665-1740, extension 798.

100 drownings in Mass.

The beaches are crowded, the pools are packed, and the lakes are filled with swimmers of all ages. As summer fun reaches a peak, however, so does the incidence of drowning.

Near-drowning accidents involve people of all ages, but especially school-aged children and adolescents. In the United States, drownings are the second leading cause of death for all people between the ages of 5 and 44. In Massachusetts, approximately 100 drowning deaths occur annually, most in the ocean or in lakes.

According to Paul Wise, M.D., Director of Emergency Services and Primary Care at the Children's Hospital, survival of a near-drowning victim depends on: how quickly the child is removed from the water, the immediate clearing of the child's breathing passages, and, if the child is not breathing or coughing, the immediate use of mouth-to-mouth or mouth-to-mouth respiration. Emergency help should be sent for as soon as possible.

"Critical heat loss is a major problem in ocean drownings," Wise says. "Every effort should be made to keep the child warm while seeking medical help."

Public swimming pools should be made inaccessible during off hours, as should private pools when owners are not present. Water play in any area — oceans, lakes, even wading pools, should be closely supervised by lifeguards or a responsible adult at all times. In addition, children should be taught how to swim at an early age and about water safety when they are older. Classes in CPR or lifeguarding can help prepare parents and babysitters to handle emergencies.

Quarries and reservoirs can be especially dangerous. Although these areas are usually marked as being closed to public use, posted signs and warnings frequently go unheeded. "Communities should actively support local police efforts to keep youngsters out of neighborhood quarries and reservoirs," Wise says. "In addition to being unguarded, many are simply unsafe for swimming."

"Even children who survive a near-drowning accident may die later, or suffer brain damage, from complications and injuries," Wise says. "Many of these tragedies can be prevented."

The "T" Shirt comes of age

By Ink Mendelsohn
Smithsonian News Service

Public speaking is a lot easier than it used to be. Today, you don't even need a soap box. If you want to get something off your chest — simply put a T-shirt on it. Thanks to this ubiquitous topper, you can now wear more than your heart on your sleeve.

In more circumspect eras of American life, one's clothing — from high-button shoes to button-down collars — was not in the habit of announcing one's private feelings to the world. Today, Americans wear T-shirts to identify themselves, to trumpet political preferences, to boast cultural connections and to make social statements. Quite often, they wear T-shirts just for laughs — to share their sense of humor with the passing parade.

T-shirts are a serious business as well. According to Carl Piazza, editor of Impressions, the trade magazine for the imprinted sportswear industry, American T-shirt sales in recent years have totaled $3-$5 billion annually.

The T-shirt is the casual-wear garment of choice for millions of Americans of all ages, sizes, shapes and descriptions. Imprinted T-shirts of every conceivable design decorate the American landscape. People, including historians at the Smithsonian Institution, collect them. It's hard to imagine that this sartorial saga started with a plain-as-peeled-potatoes undershirt.

In the beginning, in fact, it was for fatigue duties, such as peeling potatoes, that military men unofficially wore this useful garment. American soldiers were sent to France in 1917 to fight World War I in long-sleeved wool undershirts. However, a number of doughboys came home in the light knit-cotton undershirts worn by French soldiers. American manufacturers eventually began producing quantities of sleeveless, knit-cotton undershirts and some short-sleeved ones in the "T" shape that gave the T-shirt its name.

"The 'T' was the shape of things to come, but the favorite of men in the '30s was the sleeveless 'athletic' shirt, originally adapted from the top part of the tank swimsuit worn at the turn of the century. That is, it was the favorite until Clark Gable took off his shirt in the 1934 Academy Award-winning film, 'It Happened One Night,' and revealed an undershirtless chest. Several years had to pass before undershirt sales in America recovered.

The T-shirt was truly launched by World War II when the U.S. Navy issued it as regulation underwear. Sailors, who called it a skivvy shirt, welcomed the comfort and practicality of a garment they could work in, sleep in and use to polish any offensively dull brass that might come under a superior's steely gaze. After the war, American men stayed faithful to T-shirts — as underwear — until, once again, a screen idol presented them with new possibilities.

Marlon Brando brought the T-shirt out of underwear drawers and put it into the closets of millions of Americans. As Stanley Kowalski in the 1951 film, "A Streetcar Named Desire," Brando's wardrobe was simple but effective — a T-shirt that showed off his muscles and a torn T-shirt that showed off his muscles even better. James Dean and Elvis Presley followed suit with basic-white T-shirts that dazzled their fans.

Glorious technicolor dawned on the basic-white T-shirt in the late 1950s. Southern California's drag-racing culture took great pride in airbrush-decorated cars done in flames, pinstripes and exotic lettering, and a number of these automobile artists turned their airbrushes to the hot rodders' T-shirts as well. Bold, colorful and often outrageous, these sprayed-paint airbrush designs were the prototypes for many of today's heat transfer and screen printed T-shirt designs.

The imprinted T-shirt got an international boost when American actress Jean Seberg sported a trail-blazing T-shirt touting the English-language newspaper published in Paris. When she wore her T-shirt with the words "Herald Tribune" headlined across the front in the 1961 French film, "Breathless," the international set breathlessly snapped up the few that had been printed. Clearly, the T-shirt was mere underwear no longer.

Underwear became outerwear, with a vengeance. In the 1960s, millions of Americans fought for civil rights and against the Vietnamese War on college campuses and on city streets. These street soldiers had their own uniform. "In the 1960s, T-shirts and jeans were the uniform of protest," Barbara Dickstein of the Smithsonian Institution says. As Dickstein, a museum specialist in 20th-century costume, observes, "We all wear clothing as a kind of uniform — a way of identifying ourselves to the rest of the world."

Edith Mayo, a political history curator in the Smithsonian's Museum of American History, agrees and adds, "After the mid-'60s, T-shirts became a major form of political communication and expression — a political street medium much like the torchlight parades of the 19th century."

Imprinted T-shirts are wearable history — cloth chronicles of the recent past. Americans all over the country are not only wearing T-shirts but also collecting them. Some people attend auctions and acquire oldies such as an "OZ" T-shirt from the 1939 movie, "The Wizard of Oz." And combing thrift shops, antique clothing stores and flea markets sometimes results in a find like one collector's 1948 Roy Rogers T-shirt. Other people rely on historical intuition and save gems, such as an Elvis Presley T-shirt featuring his greatest hits.

If you want to collect something, T-shirts are relatively inexpensive, easy to store — and you can wear your collection. Unless you're a collector at the Smithsonian. There, Dickstein Mayo and Ellen Roney Hughes all collect T-shirts, but these artifacts are treated with the same meticulous care given to the Smithsonian's 100 million other objects.

Hughes, a museum specialist in the Museum of American History's Division of Community Life, has a favorite object in the History of American Sports collection — the T-shirt of Karren Stead. In 1975, when Stead was 11, she became the first girl to win the All-American Soap Box Derby in Akron, Ohio. It wasn't until 1971 that girls were officially permitted to race in the Soap Box Derby, although Alice Johnson, her long golden hair hidden beneath her cap, came in second in the very first Soap Box Derby, held in Dayton, Ohio, in 1933. "This T-shirt is a symbol of the growing achievement of women in American Sports in the '70s," Hughes says proudly.

Mayo collects T-shirts and other artifacts to chronicle American political and social issues, women's history and political campaigns. The earliest T-shirt in the Smithsonian is the "DEW-it-with-DEWEY" shirt created for the 1948 Truman-Dewey presidential campaign. It is a child's size, as is a 1952 "IKE" T-shirt and a 1960 "KENNEDY FOR PRESIDENT" T-shirt imprinted with Kennedy's PT 109. There's another from 1964 in a child's lettering saying, "WE'D VOTE FOR LBJ."

"Political gimmicks — buttons, household items, hankies, women's jewelry, children's toys — go back to the mid-19th century," Mayo points out. "Even before the vote for women, partisanship was a family affair." Mayo attends political rallies and protest gatherings to collect the Smithsonian's T-shirts. Would she ask for the T-shirt off a participant's back? "I have done that once or twice," she admits.

A sense of social history guides Barbara Dickstein in collecting representative T-shirts like the early Rolling Stones concert shirt in the collection. "We don't collect fashion for its own sake," she says. "We collect what's in people's closets — clothing that is worn in everyday life in given periods of time. Today, just about everybody, at one time or another, wears T-shirts."

Just about everybody, it seems, has a good reason to wear T-shirts. Some folks wear fabric leaflets like the "Save the Baby Seals" T-shirt to communicate belief in a cause. Other people wear their "Picassos" and similar wash-and-wear masterpieces to express their love of culture. Tourists who have gone anywhere at all wear their "I Love Anywhere" T-shirts as a happy memory. Stay-at-homes wear their "I'm Not a Tourist, I Live Here" shirts as defensive armor. The comedian, Chevy Chase, wears his "I'm Chevy Chase and you're not" T so you'll know who he is — and who you are.

Is the end of the T-shirt tale in sight? "The only constant in the history of clothing is change," Barbara Dickstein observes. "The eye becomes saturated and moves on." In the meantime, the T-shirt continues to reach new heights. The Challenger astronauts wore their Class of '78 "TFNG (Thirty-Five New Guys) We Deliver" T-shirts in outer space. And President Reagan may or may not wear his T-shirt with the presidential seal in the White House. As for the rest of America, it's still Ts for 200 million, as the great American T-party rolls along.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ON AGING

ASK CLAUDE PEPPER

Alzheimer's disease

By Rep. Claude Pepper

Q. My brother-in-law, age 61, was a highly respected businessman and father. I said was because although he is alive today, he is totally disoriented.

About six months ago, my sister began to notice that he was having difficulty maintaining his balance, completing simple mathematical calculations, and even driving his car. Soon, he began to find it impossible to concentrate or communicate. Then, several months ago, he couldn't remember what day or month it was.

He was forced to retire from his job, so he stayed at home watching television programs he couldn't comprehend.

Last month, my sister had a number of physicians give him a medical checkup. The diagnosis was Alzheimer's disease, which they explained is a form of senility. His brain simply melted away.

What is Alzheimer's disease? My sister's doctors offer her no hope for his improvement. Is this true? What can I do to help?

Q. Alzheimer's disease was first described in 1906 by Alois Alzheimer. A patient of his, a 55-year-old woman, had displayed "progressive jealousy" and died following severe dementia, medically defined as a profound loss of memory, intellectual functioning and the ability to take care of social and bodily needs.

Until five years ago, scientists and physicians regarded Alzheimer's as comparatively rare, untreatable and a consequence of the aging process rather than a true disease.

Those beliefs have been washed away by new research that shows Alzheimer's is far more widespread than once believed and may be treatable with drugs.

There is now good evidence that Alzheimer's disease claims about 100,000 elderly Americans a year and afflicts an additional 1 million.

We now know that 5 to 6 percent of all Americans over 70, and a substantial number under 70, contract the disease. This means that Alzheimer's disease is the fourth leading cause of death for the elderly and, with major advances being made in researching a cure, it is now becoming vitally important that those senior citizens who contract the disease not be misdiagnosed as senile and shunted aside.

While researchers are still seeking to identify the cause of Alzheimer's, scientists have discovered two drugs that show promise in overcoming the disease. The administration and Congress are recommending increased funding for further research into various treatments for this killer disease.

The House Select Committee on Aging, on which I serve, is convening hearings on Alzheimer's to examine both the myths surrounding senility and the actual causes of mental deterioration. I anticipate that increases in funding for the identification and treatment of Alzheimer's disease will receive quite a bit of attention during this session of the Congress.

For more information about Alzheimer's, I would suggest that you contact the Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Association. Write to the national headquarters at 360 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60601.

Q. My uncle, who will be turning 65 years old, was told by his employer that although they have no mandatory retirement rules until he reaches age 70, their pension plan requires that he retire at age 65. Does my uncle have to retire if he does not want to?

A. No, he does not have to retire. The requirements of the pension plan cannot override federal law, which says your uncle has the right to keep his job until age 70. However, the law does permit his employer to stop contributing to your uncle's pension plan when he reaches age 65 and to not count his years of service after age 65 in figuring the amount of his retirement pension.

Laxatives are abused

Q. My mother is constantly complaining of constipation and regularly takes laxatives to regulate herself. This has been going on for years. I had not been too concerned about it until my son, who is in medical school, told me older people should not take laxatives. Is this true? If so, why?

A. You have reason to be concerned. Although the Food and Drug Administration has found laxatives to be safe and effective for over-the-counter purchase, many medical experts, including the National Institute on Aging and the National Digestive Disease Education and Information Clearinghouse, urge older people to "avoid taking laxatives, if at all possible."

Americans spend about $360 million annually for laxatives. According to a recent report by Ralph Nader's Public Citizen Health Research Group, laxatives are "unnecessary when a proper diet is followed and many are habit-forming, often leading to abuse. Laxatives pose hazards bowel habits over time is completely normal and natural.

Unfortunately, many people, such as your mother, enlist the aid of various drugs to make their bodies behave more regularly. This can do more harm than good. Laxative abuse, an unintentional habit, is a serious problem.

To treat simple constipation without drugs, eat a high-fiber diet; drink plenty of non-alcoholic liquids (six to eight cups a day); exercise regularly; avoid or adjust constipating medication you may be taking; and try to develop a regular pattern of bowel movements, whether that pattern is twice a day, twice a week or somewhere in between. If constipation does not respond to this plan within a week, or if you suffer from abdominal pain or swelling or rectal bleeding, you should seek help from a health-care professional — not a laxative.

There may be valid instances when your doctor may suggest that you use a laxative, stool-softener or related product, such as a suppository or enema. These may be: preparation for certain diagnostic or surgical procedures; in connection with treatment for worms or certain kinds of poisoning; while a patient is hospitalized or incapacitated; during retraining to achieve normal elimination after laxative abuse has led to dependence; to avoid undue straining during a bowel movement when this could be painful or dangerous, as in patients suffering from hernias, anorectal disorders, certain heart or vascular conditions, such as some cases of severe hypertension, aneurysm, heart attack and stroke, as well as after certain surgical procedures. This does not include using a laxative for simple constipation — or the failure to eliminate regularly — which is not a disease.

If you are not experiencing discomfort and are eating a well-balanced diet with plenty of fiber and liquid and are exercising, you should have no need for laxatives. If changes in diet, travel or temporary inactivity due to minor illness cause you to become constipated, your return to a diet rich in fiber and a program of regular physical activity should correct this quickly.

Q. I read recently that the combination of heat and humidity in Chicago has been blamed for at least 12 deaths of elderly people in July in that city. I understand that elderly are usually hardest hit during heat waves. Are there any precautions to take?

A. During heat waves, senior citizens should not overexert themselves. They should wear loose clothing, drink plenty of fluids, avoid hot, heavy meals and alcohol, take cool baths or showers and avoid stressful situations. If these precautions do not help, you may wish to consult a physician.

Free trees to foundation members

The National Arbor Day Foundation is giving ten free trees to people who become Foundation Members during August, 1983. The free trees are part of the Foundation's effort to promote tree planting throughout America. A Colorado Blue Spruce, Red Maple, American Redbud,

Black Walnut, Norway Spruce, Red Oak, White Flowering Dogwood, European Mountain Ash, Flowering Crab, and Butternut tree will be given to members joining during August. The six-to-twelve inch trees will be shipped this fall postage paid with enclosed planting instructions.

These trees were selected because they provide a wide range of benefits: flowers, fruit and nuts, as well as shade and beautiful foliage, according to the Foundation. The National Arbor Day Foundation, a nonprofit organization, is working to improve the quality of life throughout the country by encouraging tree planting. The Foundation will give the ten free trees to members contributing $10 during August.

To become a member of the Foundation and to receive the free trees, a $10 membership contribution should be sent to TEN TREES, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, Ne. 68410, by August 31, 1983.

Poem

LIGHT
Carefree and wild we live
for our today's and tomorrow's.
But can we live without our yesterdays?
Where are we all going?
Running here and there
not facing anywhere
Where do we belong?
Are we shut in a world of fears?
This world is full of tears

But beyond the darkened clouds
there is a light
That light is our hopes and dreams
We can all reach for that light,
and move away the clouds.
And make our dreams come true
if we really want them to.

Protective clothing project of Natick lab

By Jerry Whitaker
U.S. Army Natick
Research & Development Labs.

Protective clothing experts at the U.S. Army Natick Research and Development Laboratories (NLABS), Natick, Massachusetts, work on projects for the U.S. Army that often have application within the civilian sector. The lives of police officers and fire fighters are now much safer because of the military research and development efforts of Natick Laboratories. Inconspicuous body armor and other safety clothing and equipment items pioneered by Natick, have proven successful and are currently commonplace among civilian workers in these two dangerous occupations.

Once again, clothing experts in Natick's Individual Protection Laboratory are designing an item for the military that will be useful to civilians engaged in certain hazardous jobs.

NLABS, a major subordinate command of the U.S. Army Materiel Development and Readiness Command, was recently tasked with the responsibility for providing Explosive Ordnance Disposal (EOD) personnel with a bomb disposal clothing system that would afford the user a maximum amount of protection against high velocity fragments caused by exploding bombs. The job of these EOD personnel is to deactivate and dispose of bombs and other dangerous munitions. Therefore, every bit of protection possible must be provided these individuals when approaching such lethal devices during "render safe-neutralizing" procedures.

Encasing EOD personnel in steel enclosures would provide the ultimate in protection. However, flexibility, mobility, and manual dexterity would be sacrificed. The more practical solution is to shield these soldiers in metal-like clothing that could retain all of these important characteristics. NLABS also considers certain other features mandatory such as comfort, low weight, safety from an explosion caused by static electricity, magnetic charge or a spark. Finally, the Army has unusually high requirements for stopping bomb fragments associated with exploding ordnance and improvised explosive devices.

One of Natick's first steps was to investigate the ballistic protective characteristics of several commercially available EOD armor systems. The test data showed that these commercially manufactured systems fell far below the Army's critical needs. In general, bomb fragments of various weights and velocities easily penetrated to the test systems. Also, the individual systems were extremely bulky which greatly impaired the movement of the wearers. Consequently, ballistic protection and gross mobility of the test systems were determined to be inadequate.

An advanced prototype bomb disposal system has recently been designed by the Natick Laboratories to satisfy the requirements established by the Department of the Army. Future testing of this protective ensemble will provide data needed to make any alterations and modifications to assure the Army's needs are met.

Natick's EOD system consists of five components: coat, trouser, helmet, bonnet and one-piece chest and face plate. These items have been designed as a complete system and, to be effective, the entire ensemble must be worn.

The coat is constructed of a fire-resistant Nomex fabric cover with a ballistic insert of 16 plies of Kevlar fabric. A quick-release mechanism is built into the left side of the garment to facilitate donning and removal while the front has a removable groin protector and two pockets, one to carry tools and one to contain the chest and face plate.

The trouser is made of the same fabric as the coat; however, the legs are designed with frontal protection only and incorporate a knee-action system and a scissor-type suspender with quick release adjustable buckles. The back of each leg consists of four Nomex fabric straps with Velcro fasteners. Spats are also provided as part of the trouser to provide the necessary protection to the feet.

The head is partially protected by the Army's new standard PASGT (Personnel Armor System for Ground Troops) helmet, a resin-impregnated ballistic resistant Kevlar material headpiece.

Augmenting the PASGT helmet is a bonnet made of fire resistant Nomex with 12 plies of Kevlar inserts for additional ballistic protection to the entire head.

Finally, the one-piece chest and face plate will complete the EOD system. The face shield, constructed of a thick transparent polycarbonate backed with acrylic material, is tailored to protect the entire face. The chest plate, made of a molded fiberglass fabric with polyester resin composite, is designed to conform to the contour of the body.

Soldiers and, eventually, civilians engaged in the Explosive Ordnance Disposal field can be assured of the maximum in protection when they wear Natick's EOD body armor. Inherent in this new garment is the mettle of the Natick researchers who consistently strive to make life easier and safer for people who are engaged in dangerous occupations.

THE PROTECTIVE SUIT developed by the U.S. Army Natick Research and Development Laboratories consists of five components: coat, trouser, helmet, bonnet and one-piece chest and face plate. Used together, this apparel forms a protective system that is effective and functional for people who must defuse and dispose of explosive devices.

Adoption possible

DARE has a child for you!

Carl is an adorable, healthy biracial boy who is just six years old. He has been living in a foster home for a little over a year, and he has made very good progress. Now he needs a black or biracial family to adopt him.

Carl is very bright and talkative, and with encouragement he can express his feelings verbally. He loves to play with cars and trains, and he enjoys animals. Carl gets along well with his peers, and he is gentle and caring with younger children. He is somewhat immature for his age, and needs lots of reassurance and affection from adults. Carl sees a therapist once a week, to help him work through his feelings of confusion and sadness over his mother's inability to care for him. When he is under stress, Carl's behavior tends to regress and he occasionally takes out his anger on others. He needs firm but gentle limits from parents who will not reject him when he is "bad".

Carl is not yet free for adoption, but the legal risk is considered low. His social worker is looking for a two-parent family who can help provide transportation to Boston once a week, so Carl can continue to see his therapist.

Carl is a very appealing little boy who has a lot to offer to a family. Despite his earlier losses, he is still able to give back the love and affection he needs to receive. Families who can consider adopting Carl are urged to call DARE Family Services at 628-3696.

Today's generation of mobile/manufactured homes is constructed to America's only national, federally enforced building code which mandates one of the most energy-efficient types of housing currently available, according to a study released by the Manufactured Housing Institute (MHI).

That building code, the HUD National Manufactured Housing Construction and Safety Standards, has resulted in mobile/manufactured homes registering better, or at least identical, energy efficiency ratings than comparable site built housing. This is due in large part to the built and sold in America, MHI reports.

Those energy efficiency requirements include standards relating to condensation control, air infiltration, thermal insulation, and heating and comfort cooling. In fact, says MHI, the HUD Manufactured Housing Code is the only existing set of home construction standards that prescribes a minimum level of insulation protection.

The study also pointed out that mobile/manufactured homes are precisely engineered to incorporate a "thermal envelope" to effectively contain heat and comfort cooling while reducing air infiltration.

Gas guzzlers of '50s' '60s' are selling as classics

By Ed Janicki
Special to
The Christian Science Monitor

Bored by the look-alike "econocars" of the 1980s? Want something different from the crowd?

Believe it or not, the gas hogs of the '50s and '60s are fetching top dollar in the fickle used-car market of the '80s. When these so-called automotive dinosaurs were designed and built, Detroit was caught up in excessiveness, ostentation, and gimmickry.

No one laughed at the cars because they were signs of the times. Weighing up to two tons or more, they featured gaudy fins, tritone paint jobs, massive V-8 engines, and 50 pounds of chrome.

No one really cared that you had to fill the gasoline tank every two hours when you drove at sustained high speeds.

Detroit engineers began to coin new words ending in "matic," "flite," or "glide": hydramatic, powerglide, airflyte, motormatic, dynaflo, cruisematic, fluid drive, torqueflyte — and one car was nicknamed "powerless crawl" because there was so much slippage in the transmission. All were intended to capture the symbolism of space-age rocketry.

There were silver-bullet speedometer needles topped with red jelly beans, radio push buttons that spelled out B-U-I-C-K, foot-operated station changers for the lazy, back-up lights that could flood a football field, and hood ornaments shaped like wild animals.

Advertisements at the time lauded the DeSoto Deluxe, Chevy Chic, Pontiac Power, Buick Beauty, Ford Flashy, and Edsel Elegance. One even boasted of "off-the-shoulder" upholstery fit for the ladies.

Most of these marvelous mechanisms are battered silly nowadays and selling "as is" from scruffy used-car lots. Others are piled high in junkyards as crunched, rusted, and stripped shadows of what they once had been. Yet some of them are on their way to becoming classics of a bygone era.

An enthusiastic diehard of the old days, who happens to own a 1949-50 Buick Roadmaster, says he loves it for its comfort and space, explaining: "You're not tied in like you're flying an open-cockpit biplane. I like to punch in the cruise control and sit back while the car drives itself. It's that ride that really turns me on — soft and smooth, and not the short, choppy ride of many of the cars of today."

A Boston socialite now has a 1959 convertible in her three-Cadillac garage, because, she asserts, it represents an era's final hurrah and maybe Detroit's last laugh in the big-car scene.

Buick Century hardtop for '55

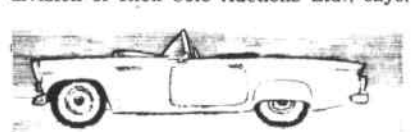

A West Coast interior decorator who cherishes his 1958 Chrysler Imperial sedan, which is painted a very unartistic turquoise-green and white, says: "It's like saying, 'Hey, guys, look at me. Aren't I having a lot of fun? And when they designed me, they didn't stop, they just kept on going.' What an abysmal but wonderful example of excess at its best."

While the public's affection for such classic guzzlers is hardly a national trend as yet, it is spreading. It began in southern California (where most trendy American things originate), surged along to Chicago, then on to Texas and Miami, and finally up the East Coast to New York and Boston.

The full experience, so to speak, involves buying, restoring, and then the daily driving of these land yachts for the mere pleasure of it. They aren't just stored away in a garage.

Drew Hardin, manager of the classic car division of Rick Cole Auctions Ltd., says,

Ford Thunderbird for '55

"There's definitely an undercurrent, a cult starting to form across the nation."

In four auctions held this past year, Mr. Hardin says he witnessed old-time Detroit gas-guzzlers going for as high as $10,000 (a 1957 Chrysler 300E) and as low as $1,675 (a 1965 Cadillac sedan).

"Because they are not all that expensive, compared to the robot-made tin cans we're seeing offered today, they're becoming increasingly popular. It seems that anything around that's worth restoring is being restored." These cars are not only being snapped up as daily transportation, but also as investments.

On the other hand, other trend setters think this may be another aspect of the 1950s nostalgia movement evident in clothes, music, dance steps, movie reruns, and other entertainments. Among Detroit buffs' most-favored relics: the fabled Buick Electras, Chrysler wagons with the wooden paneling (real wood, by the way), the New Yorkers and Crown Imperials of the '50s, all the Lincoln Continentals of the '60s, and any Cadillac that ever carried a rear fin.

Bob Gottlieb, a California attorney who owns 55 classic cars of the '20s and '30s, doesn't think the cars of the '50s and '60s present too much in the way of an investment potential. He says he'd rather buy one good Duesenberg than a dozen slab-side limousines of the recent past.

Young adult buyers are seeking out these cars, he says, "because they identify with the automobiles they grew up with, but could never afford anything except a clapped-out Ford or Chevy."

Enthusiasts say that for $6,000 you can buy a new, tinny, unstyled "econo-box." Yet for that same $6,000, you can get an immaculate example of an older big Cadillac, complete with space, comfort, and luxury.

Mechanically, many of the old land cruisers are as honest, rugged, and reliable as a stove bolt. Parts for them are still readily available, and basic repairs can be performed at the service-station. Insurance is inexpensive. And their gasoline consumption can seem a slurp in the bucket when balanced out by low purchase prices and their total driving enjoyment.

A mechanic from "the old school" remarks: "And you know, when you look under the hood, you see spark plugs, not vacuum hoses, black boxes, widgets, nimbets, thingamajigs, and whatchamacallits all over the place."

There's even a growing trend to organize the Great American Land Yacht Society. Membership drives will be started by putting a flyer under the windshield wiper of any parked land yacht. A newsletter is planned, and so is a catalogue of parts centers.

A logo for the group is being drawn up by automotive artist Harold Cleworth. It will likely include the rear fin and Buck Rogers tail-light of a '59 Cadillac. The motto will be: "Chrome, Fins, Tonnage."

FILMETER

A capsule look at cinema

FILMETER is compiled by Dick Kleiner in Hollywood and the NEA staff in Hollywood and New York.

NEW RELEASES

MR. MOM (PG) — Michael Keaton, Teri Garr, Martin Mull. (Comedy) A married couple's life gets turned upside down when Dad loses his job and stays home to mind the kids while Mom must fight it out in the business world. This might have worked if it had been written by Kaufman and Hart back in the '40s, but today it is just a badly paced, tired sitcom. GRADE: D-plus

STAYING ALIVE (PG) — John Travolta, Cynthia Rhodes, Finola Hughes. (Musical) Travolta is back as Tony Manero (his character in "Saturday Night Fever") but this one is not feverish, just sick. The slightest of stories (Manero is now a chorus boy and is at the apex of a love triangle) and overblown production numbers make it all a yawn. The music and dancing, designed to carry the film, are sub-par. GRADE: C-minus

GENERAL RELEASE

CLASS (R) — Rob Lowe, Andrew McCarthy, Jacqueline Bisset. (Comedy/Drama) This is "Animal House" with class — a look at teenage boys growing up and their problems and pleasures. There is a plot — one of the boys gets involved with his roommate's mother — that makes it all suddenly heavy, but even that is handled with wit and delicacy. The R is for explicit sex. GRADE: B-plus

OCTOPUSSY (PG) — Roger Moore, Maud Adams, Louis Jourdan. (Action-Adventure) This latest Bond film is, as usual, good fun but somehow the joke seems to be wearing thin. There are too many narrow escapes and incredible gadgets and gorgeous girls. It's done with the same bravado and skill as the earlier ones, but this Bond seems ready to be cashed in. GRADE: B

RETURN OF THE JEDI (PG) — Mark Hamill, Harrison Ford, Carrie Fisher. (Sci-Fi) The third of the "Star Wars" epics is the best from the standpoint of imagination. George Lucas and his team have created some incredible creatures, and the whole thing may be the ultimate in silliness, but it's also a symphony of special effects. It's violent, and a little scary for kids — some of the creatures devour people — so be prepared for future nightmares. GRADE: A-minus

STROKER ACE (PG) — Burt Reynolds, Ned Beatty, Jim Nabors, Loui Anderson. (Comedy) A bunch of unfunny adventures and car crashes, all involving a race driver and his friends, enemies and loves. It is incredibly unfunny. In fact, it just could be the comedy with the fewest laughs ever filmed. GRADE: D-minus

SUPERMAN III (PG) — Christopher Reeve, Richard Pryor, Annette O'Toole, Robert Vaughn. (Action-Adventure) Superman has gone to the well once too often, or else the producers have run dry. This one, off to a promising start, falls apart totally. We even have to suffer through some Superman-gone-bad scenes (drunk, disorderly and given to nasty stunts like straightening the Tower of Pisa). It's un-American, un-funny — and boring. GRADE: C-minus

TRADING PLACES (R) Dan Aykroyd, Eddie Murphy, Ralph Bellamy, Don Ameche. (Comedy) A financial whiz (Aykroyd) and a street-smart con artist (Murphy) fall victim to two old codgers riding on a bet — whether environment or heredity make a man. After a few strings are pulled, the two unknowingly switch places. The results are funny. Both men, after discovering what has happened to them, unite to fix the situation. Good laughs and performances. GRADE: B

TWILIGHT ZONE: THE MOVIE (PG) — Dan Aykroyd, Albert Brooks, Vic Morrow, Seatman Crothers, Kathleen Quinlan, John Lithgow. (Sci-Fi) It's really not a movie at all, merely a series of four non-connected episodes (plus prologue) which are better suited to TV than a theater. They lack the Rod Serling imagination which made the series sparkle. These are (with the exception of the terrific prologue) trite and totally without surprise. GRADE: C
